Neeley Is for Hodges. Sam Graybill, state live stock sanimanager for George A. Neeley, made a mistake when he intimated that 25,000 Neeley supporters might bolt Governor Hodges in the election if "Ironjaw" Brown continued to attack Neeley in his speeches. Congressman Neeley denies that he intends to bolt the governor or will in any manner refuse to support him in the coming

The Grayoni statement was made in the course of a controversy with Sam Seaton, parole clerk for the governor. In his statement, Graybill is quoted as saying: "I tell you if Brown doesn't quit making speeches against Neeley, there will be 25,000 Neeley Democrat votes cast against Hodges in the election."

Concerning this statement, Con-gressman Neeley said: "I know noth-ing whatever about the controversy between these gerliemen, but desire to state that I have supported Gov-ernor Hodges during two campaigns and have voted for him twice, and expect to support and vote for him again."

HINDUS FIGHT POLICE.

Deport Them.

Vancouver, B. C., July 26.—Hindus aboard the Japanese steamer Komogals Maru repelled a boarding party of armed guards sent out by the immigration authorities, with bullets and a stream of hot water after they had forcibly taken the stokers from the hold of the vessel.

Several white men were severely injured and two or three Hindus shot. The white men were roughly handled by the Hindus on gaining the dack.

The cruiser Rainbow will aid in boarding the Komogala Maru. If necessary to obtain control and maintain it, the Hindus will be handcuffed, which, in view of their violent actions, is considered fully justified.

The only women present in court were two women barristers and several witnesses. The rest of the space was occupied by 147 reporters, 20 artists, 75 witnesses, about 50 barristers and possibly as many more Republican guards, detectives and petty court officers.

Upon the table in front of the judge's stand was a large brown paper package containing the pistol with which Calmette was shot, and various other articles connected with the case. Mme Caillaux wept when the court clerk, reading the indictment reached the words, "willful murder." She shook with sobs and used her handkerchief from time to time, looking round as though searching for a friendly face.

The clerk then called the list of witnesses, each of whom answered "present" and left the court. Joseph Caillaux, the prisoner's husband, answered in a firm voice and she watched him as the went out.

idea of Discouraging Card— Spreading in Topeka

Anti-card-passing petitions circulated for cignature by candidates for nomination before the Shawnee county primaries on August 4, will be left at the county clerk's office during the balance of this week so that any candidates who have not had an opportunity to hitch their names to it may do so either in person or by letter. This plan has been approved by the circulators of the petition after making futile efforts to locate a few of the men running for office who live in the country or are too busy campaigning to be readily found.

Democratic names have been gathered up today as rapidly as were those Republicans among whom the original petition was circulated last week. Approval of the idea of eliminating the card-passing evil from the coming primary election has been expressed by candidates and voters with such entire unanimity as to justify the prediction that cards will be wholly absent at voting places. It will be the first time in history. Fear of annoying women voters has been the foundation for the movement.

taker. "He told me to take care of it for a few days and have it placed in a receiving vault and that some one would be along to claim it," said Stewart. The stranger and Stewart then took the body out to the cemetery and placed it in the receiving vault. There it remained for thirteen months. Two months ago it was removed to the potter's field, according to accounts.

Brown, the sexton, was sure that he would know the man who accompanied Stewart with the body. He and the detectives took the next train that would carry them to Newcastle.

The detectives said they had traced the box containing the body to a town in Florida, and found that from there it had been shipped to Champaign, Ill. The man who was transporting the box about registered at various places, it was said. According to Davis they had a complete record of all his movements.

"Their description of the body was accurate," said Davis. "From the papers they exhibited and their knowledge of the case I judge that they are on the right trail. The mystery appears to be solved.

"I do not know whether the body is that of the Winters girl or not," asserted E. W. Davis, sheriff of Champaign county, over the long distance telephone. "The detectives who came here, however, think they have found her. I believe we will positively identify the body within a few hours."

Says It Is Not His Girl.

"I do not believe the body exhumed at Urbana, Ill., is that of my little girl." This was the assertion made over the telephone, from Newcastle, Ind., by Dr. William A. Winters,

Detective Abel, after giving up the case, asserted he had uncovered evidence purporting to show that a box had been shipped to a town near Decatur, Ill., the second day after the disappearance of the Winters girl.

Another Claims the Body.

Champaign, Ill., July 20.—Sensational developments in the case of the body disinterred in Mount Hope cemetery, alleged to be that of missing Katherine Winters, of Newcastle, Ind., culminated this morning when Nicholas Larry, brother of William Larry, murdered mysteriously a year ago, was drawn into the case. Larry was closeted with the state's attorney for a long time this morning after Guy Stewart, an undertaker of Champaign, had identified him as the man who caused the body of the girl to be deposited in the receiving vault at the cemetery.

posited in the receiving vault at the cemetery.

"The body was that of my daughter," said Larry. "She was two years old and died in Jacksonville, Fla."

Larry, greatly agitated, threatened trouble if he was arrested. The case seemed to rest on whether the body is that of a two-year-old or a twelve-year-old girl. Outsiders were refused permission to see the body. Newcastle people who knew Katherine Winters arrived at noon to see the body.

Chicago, July 20.—WHEAT—Receipts of newly harvested wheat, amounting to 2,000 carloads and clear weather northwest carloads and clear weather northwest rapidly maturing the spring crop caused a general decline; in the market after opening %c lower to a shade advance.

Later a decided reaction took place owing to North Dakota reports of damage from black rust. The close was strong, %c to %6%c net higher.

CORN—Fear of a dry weather scare made corn firm. Damage reports from Argentine tended to aid the buils. After opening %c off to %e up prices scored a general gain.

Recent rains were said to have been of too short duration to be of material benefit in Missouri and Illinois. The close was firm at %6%c to %6%c net advance. OATS—Oats railied with corn. At first, however, the market was easy under scattered selling.

PROVISIONS—Plentiful offerings overcame an early advance in provisions. The temporary upturn resulted from the fact that hog receipts at western points continued to be far below the total at the corresponding time a year ago.
